Still time to visit 94th L.A. County Fair offering something for everyone!

“Let the Fair begin!”

And with those words at an opening day ribbon-cutting ceremony with the Fair’s Carnival attractions in the background, Fairplex Interim CEO and Chairman of the Board Mike Ortiz officially opened the 94th run of the Los Angeles County Fair this month.

And what a Fair it is this year – continuing through Sunday just in case you haven’t been yet – featuring thrilling rides, more than 1,200 menu items including the popular fried food specialty creations, livestock and more, all making the L.A. County Fair America’s biggest county fair in terms of acres and fun.

But when you go, remember this year’s theme is “Dare to Fair,” a challenge to make sure you get the most out of the Fair’s adventure-packed 487 acres.

To make sure you take that challenge seriously, the Fair even has a new official ambassador – the Fairdevil – to make sure you have the most epic Fair experience ever.

Fairdevil Darnel Pinson is the Fair’s first new Ambassador of Fun since Thummer the Pig was introduced in 1948. And he is starring in television, outdoor, print and online advertising throughout the Fair.

Need more? The Fair’s got more – new attractions this year include three acres of 35 life-size animatronic dinosaurs in Jurassic Planet

(they are voice activated – they’ll move toward you almost like they’d eat out of your hand), an ice-skating and snow-sledding wonderland in The Igloo, walk-through floral paintings in the Flower & Garden Pavilion, more than 500 barnyard animals, the traditional End of Summer Concert Series with the biggest names in music, and the list goes on.

Fair food is always a hit at the L.A. County Fair!

The chile relleno burger was a big hit on media day at the L.A. County Fair.

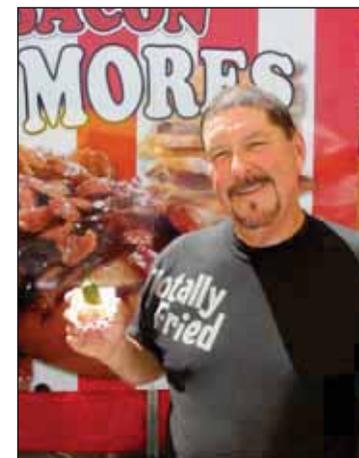

We're pretty sure you won't find a chicken and waffle on a stick anywhere else in the Inland Empire, but Jessica Baeza will get you one at the Fair! It did real well at the Orange County Fair this year and was new this year at the L.A. County Fair.

Cookie lady Cathy Johnson of Cathy's Cookies, of Orange, made her first appearance this year at the L.A. County Fair with amazing chocolate chip cookies that were hot out of the oven.

Looking for that taste of Louisiana? Harold and Belle's now has two locations at the Fair -- one on the midway next to Building 6 and the other back by Jurassic Planet (near the Flower & Garden Pavilion). Denise Legaux served up a little crawfish etouffee, or crawfish tail meat stewed in its gravy and served with rice.

Don't miss the deep fried hot sauce with a grilled jalapeno, presented to La Nueva Voz by Chicken Gerald, Charlie's brother.

summer tradition for tens of thousands."

"We are a destination for family fun, a venue for diverse entertainment and education, and celebration of community," he added.

"Throughout the Fair's storied history, agriculture and horticulture have been prominently featured," Ortiz said. "The Farm at Fairplex and its programs are a perpetual legacy to the rich history of the Los Angeles County Fair and its roots."

Oh, and did we mention the food? This year's Fair was the site of the world premiere of Deep-Fried Hot Sauce, although Deep-Fried Bacon S'mores, chicken and waffle on a stick and Deep-Fried Bacon Guacamole also proved interesting on media preview day (you know, of course, La Nueva Voz was there just to make sure everything passed the test for our readers).

And don't forget the traditional giant turkey legs and corn on the cob.

Not one for eating on the run? Don't forget Maria's Italian Kitchen, located again this year inside The Avalon at Fairplex, across from the Grandstand, for traditional sit-down Italian dining indoors.

The Fair offers some 60 food vendors altogether.

All in all, the L.A. County Fair produced another amazing event this year.

Even reduced price tickets are available at the Pomona Chamber of Commerce office, and several discount plans are described on the Fair's own web site.

So if you haven't been, hop in the car and "Dare to Fair!"

Dominic Palmieri, the "Midway Gourmet," will tell you all about his bacon-wrapped pork belly on a stick -- lean pork belly dusted with ground sage and rosemary, wrapped in thick-cut, honey smoked bacon and slow-smoked for about two and a half hours. "Pork on pork, that's the pig on pig action," Palmieri said. Plus it's another brand new item just rolled out for the L.A. County Fair. Want to go the full nine yards? Have it deep fried for good measure.

You gotta try the deep-fried bacon-wrapped guacamole, a new item that appeared for the first time anywhere at the L.A. County Fair, courtesy of Chicken Charlie's.

emonies at the annual Pomona Day reception for about 200 Pomona community leaders at the Fair before the annual Pomona Day Parade complete with marching bands and floats circling throughout the L.A. County Fairgrounds.

Master of Ceremonies at the event was Dr. Jeff Vaniman, Chairman of the Pomona Community Committee that each year selects the Pomona award winners announced at the affair.

"Each of these awardees brings something different and extraordinary to Pomona through their significant contributions," he said.

Pamela Lynn

Lynn, nominated for the award by Pomona Mayor Elliott Rothman, founded Angels Who Care to serve the community's homeless population and needy families in the city.

The organization provides tutoring programs, after school counseling, community service programs, school supplies and backpack programs, a special toy give-away and a food pantry.

"Angels Who Care has helped to bring purpose and hope to the homeless and needy families of our community," Vaniman said. "Pamela is a person who dedicates her life to the achievements of others as an inspiration to all."

Manuel Castillejos

Castillejos, nominated by Pomona City Councilmember Cristina Carrizosa, was described by Vaniman as "an unsung hero who has spent years of his life, talent and experience persevering, teaching and expanding the knowledge of history, art, music and culture of a large segment of Pomona's population."

He organized a children's mariachi band, coordinates weekly multi-cultural community concerts, and teaches students about the importance of preserving art and culture.

"As the owner of the School of Arts in Pomona, he has opened his school to children of low income families where they are taught to sing, dance and play musical instruments that allow them to perform at community events and festivals," Vaniman added.

He also volunteers as an assistant to the director of the Pomona Youth Orchestra where he both tutors young musicians and sings in the choir.

Denise Guadarrama

Guadarrama was nominated by Mickey Gallivan, president of the Historical Society of Pomona Valley. "Denise is a senior honor student at the School of Arts and Enterprise in Pomona and on top of her school work she dedicates a lot of her time in helping out with the historical society," Vaniman said.

Dr. Jeff Vaniman
Chairman, Pomona Community Committee

She volunteers three days a week, polishing silver for banquets, moving tables and chairs and helping with mailings and typing documents, among other responsibilities.

"She never says no to helping out, she is involved in all of the Historical Society events as well as the community activities," Vaniman added. "She always keeps a positive attitude."

Need it? Fair's got it!

Need to buy some new cookware from a friendly salesperson who wants to be famous? Or maybe you need to buy a spray bottle of the best car wax ever. How about a new sewing machine that automatically embroiders a picture of Mickey Mouse and hundreds of other designs? And don't forget, you can walk around with a giant turkey leg cooked on site -- just because you were so hungry after all that shopping. The L.A. County Fair's got it all.

Pomona is 'open for business,' city staff looking to better serve needs of business

The City of Pomona is "open for business," is experiencing significant economic growth and development activity, and wants to continue to do a better job of serving the needs of the many businesses in Pomona.

This message was communicated last month to representatives of local businesses, the Pomona Chamber of Commerce board and others in an economic development presentation at Pomona's American Museum of Ceramic Arts.

Pomona City Manager Linda Lowry told the group of about two dozen participants one of the goals of the session was to introduce business operators to staff they will need to work out solutions or make suggestions to the city.

"We think we have a pretty good story to tell right now because the city is in recovery significantly in the development area," she said. "We are waiting for all of the other revenues to catch up with us as development and business, retail particularly, increases."

She said during the recession everyone struggled even though some "very strong partners" came in and developed during the recession.

"But in the midst of that then we lost redevelopment and that was a way that the city had worked with developers and businesses, and that's what was taken away from us," she said.

Now, she added, no city has a better redevelopment agency than any other and "the playing field has been leveled."

"We would like to make a different game with the business community by opening our doors, by making direct connections with you on that level playing field, so that you know what opportunities are available to you and what processes are inside city hall and if those processes aren't working for you who it is that you can talk to to help get it straightened out," she said.

She introduced Kirk Pelser, deputy city manager, who said his interest is in starting a dialogue with the business community.

He pointed out that before the dissolution of redevelopment the city had a staff of eight or 10 people handling redevelopment and economic development work and now the city is down to two and a half people.

"But that doesn't mean we can't still make a difference," he said.

"I want you to know you have a voice in city hall," he added. "It's really about creating more of an interactive team so that we can help you succeed, because when you succeed, that's a big part of what makes the city succeed."

"Sales tax, property tax, employment, all of those things are critically important," he said.

Pomona's Development Services Director Mark Lazzaretto focused on projects that have been completed recently or that are in the pipeline.

He said manufacturing will be the sustainable focus of the city.

"We figure that jobs, jobs, jobs, jobs is what's going to replace sales tax," he said, explaining that sales tax was what the city focused on before redevelopment agencies were eliminated in California.

"You can have people who can afford to live and work and play and stay in your community and those jobs are located in a place that has amenities like restaurants or stores that people can go to on their lunch break, if you have schools and parks that are close to those jobs, then that's naturally where people want to live," he said.

He reviewed recent projects developed in the city which he said represent a valuation of $500 million, including 1.1 million square feet of industrial space, hotels with over 400 rooms either brand new or recently renovated, about 200,000 square feet of commercial retail space, 400 residential units and significant institutional investment.

"This is what our economy is demanding right now and this is the tip of the iceberg," he said, explaining he spends countless hours each week with people interested in doing new projects with the city.

Participants – ranging from manufacturers to engineering companies and developers – were asked to fill out a survey indicating what they saw as areas of challenges while conducting business in Pomona and indicating aspects that make Pomona an ideal place for them to conduct business.

Ismael ‘Ish’ Arias announces candidacy for Pomona City Council

Pomona Planning Commissioner Ismael “Ish” Arias, announcing his candidacy for Pomona City Council District 1, said he is running for public office because he believes he can do more.

“As a community leader and volunteer, I have been able to effect positive change, but I believe I can do more,” said Arias, who was born, raised and educated in Pomona.

In addition, he lives and works in Pomona today and his family lives in Pomona.

Arias said he serves the community as Vice Chair of the Pomona Planning Commission, approving projects such as expanding Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center to a full-fledged trauma center that will save lives and bring quality jobs to Pomona.

He is also Chair of the Pomona

Ismael ‘Ish’ Arias

Christmas Parade Committee, where he has been “helping to make it bigger and better each year.”

He serves Pomona’s youth as a board member of Fist of Gold, a youth-based boxing program building pride and character in Pomona’s youth.

“I’m an active member of the Pomona Kiwanis Club, serving the needs of Pomona’s underserved youth,” he added, and “I serve as a board member of the Downtown Pomona Owners Association (DPOA), helping to revitalize and rejuvenate our historic downtown.”

“I’ve seen firsthand the changes in Pomona, our quality of life, our way of life,” Arias said. “Pomona deserves better – better streets, paved alleys, clean and repaired sidewalks.”

“We deserve a full time, well-stocked public library, training programs and quality schools to provide our youth a better life, a solution to the homelessness that plagues our city, a fully funded police department and more police of-icers,” he said.

In addition, he said the city deserves a well-equipped fire department staffed to serve the city’s needs, a strong business community bringing good jobs to the city’s youth and all citizens, and a city councilmember who will listen to and work for the citizens.

“I will work hard to make (these things) happen,” Arias said. “As your city councilman, I will listen to your concerns, I will be accessible, I will build consensus with my fellow city council colleagues to get things done.”

“I will strive to make Pomona a city we can all be proud of,” he said. “Together, we can make a difference.”

Pomona Valley Hospital receives ‘Gold Seal’ for management of sepsis

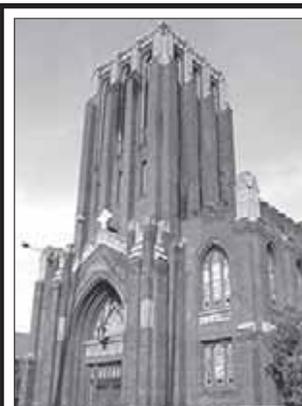

Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center has received The Joint Commission’s “Gold Seal of Approval” for the certification of distinction in the management of sepsis.

The recognition is a symbol of quality that reflects an organization’s commitment to providing safe and effective patient care.

Sepsis is the presence in tissues of harmful bacteria and their toxins, typically through infection of a wound.

The hospital underwent a rigorous on-site review last April in which experts evaluated compliance with national disease-specific care standards as well as with sepsis-specific requirements.

Pomona Valley Hospital honored for 'guidelines-based' stroke treatment

Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center recently received the American Heart Association/American Stroke Association's "Get with the Guidelines" stroke "gold plus" quality achievement award with "Target: Stroke Honor Roll Elite."

The award recognizes the hospital's commitment to providing the most appropriate stroke treatment according to nationally recognized, research-based guidelines incorporating the latest scientific evidence.

To qualify for the award, hospitals must meet quality measures developed to reduce the time between the patient's arrival at the hospital and treatment with the clot-buster tissue plasminogen activator, the only drug approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to treat ischemic stroke.

If given intravenously in the first three hours after the start of stroke symptoms, the drug has been shown to significantly reduce the effects of stroke and lessen the chance of permanent disability.

The hospital earned the award by meeting specific quality achievement measures for the diagnosis and treatment of stroke patients at a set level for a designated period.

The measures are designed to help hospital teams follow the most up-to-date, evidence-based guidelines with the goal of speeding recovery and reducing death and disability for stroke patients.

"This recognition further demonstrates our commitment to delivering advanced stroke treatments to patients quickly and safely," said Deborah Keasler, RN, Director of the Stead Heart and Vascular Center.

Pomona Valley also has met specific scientific guidelines as a Primary Stroke Center, featuring a comprehensive system for rapid diagnosis and treatment of stroke patients admitted to the emergency department.

According to the American Heart Association/American Stroke Association, stroke is the number five cause of death and a leading cause of adult disability in the U.S. On average, someone in the U.S. suffers a stroke every 40 seconds, someone dies of a stroke every four minutes and nearly 800,000 people suffer a new or recurrent stroke each year.

Tickets on sale for 24th annual Pumpkin Festival at Cal Poly

Tickets are on sale for next month's 24th annual Pumpkin Festival at Cal Poly University Pomona, celebrating California agriculture by offering families a weekend of exciting activities.

The two-day event will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 8 and 9, at Cal Poly's AGRIScapes Center near the Farm Store.

Cal Poly's "Month of Pumpkins" follows the two-day kick-off event with the Pumpkin Patch open every day from Oct. 11 until Oct. 30 for visitors to pick their very own pumpkins.

"If you like the country fair atmosphere, the games and all the activities, come to the festival," said event director Craig Walters. "If you don't like large crowds and just want to pick a pumpkin, come visit the Pumpkin Patch afterward."

About 70,000 pumpkins are grown each year for the event by Cal Poly either at AGRIScapes or on farmland in Chino.

Tickets are $4 for adults and $3 for children ages 2 to 12. Children under 2 are admitted free. Parking is included in the price of admission.

Activity tickets will not be sold at the festival in response to concerns raised last year regarding long lines.

Tickets are on sale at [\[festival.cpp.edu\]\(http://festival.cpp.edu\) or at the AGRIScapes office near the Farm Store. Festivalgoers are encouraged to buy tickets in advance so they can bypass the ticket sales lines at the event. Discounts are only available in advance.](http://pumpkinfesti- <div data-bbox=)

After the festival, admission to the Pumpkin Patch will be free, although free parking will be limited.

All pumpkins from the patch will cost $5 each. Proceeds will help support Cal Poly's College of Agriculture farm operations, student clubs and activities.

The annual Cal Poly Insect Fair, previously held in the Bronco Student Center, will move to the Pumpkin Festival for the first time this year.

Featured will be thousands of live and preserved arthropods from all over the world. Vendors will sell insect-related wares ranging from jewelry that looks like insects to display cases and more.

Also included will be the four-acre corn maze, a petting farm and horse rides.

Pumpkin pie eating and seed spitting contests also are scheduled, and live musical performances are scheduled at the gazebo.

Parking is available in the new two-story parking structure on Temple Avenue near I-Poly High School or in Lot B within walking distance of the festival.

Additional parking will be in Lot F and the University Parking Structure off Kellogg and Palm drives. A shuttle to the event will be available to guests free of charge.

For more information, contact pumpkinfestival@cpp.edu or (909) 869-2215.

'Celebration of Women's Health' to be held next week

Pomona's Inter Valley Health Plan and Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center will host a "Celebration of Women's Health" event next week – offering shopping, free screenings and presentations, raffles and give-aways – in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 1, at Shirlee's Ultimate Women's Gym, 1275 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

Elizabeth Jimenez, R.N., a breast cancer nurse navigator, will speak, along with speakers on topics of creative journaling and spirituality.

Women of all ages are invited to attend the event that is free and open to the public.

Snacks will be available for sale.

President Obama appoints Cal Poly professor to national council

President Barack Obama has appointed Cal Poly University Pomona architecture professor Luis Hoyos to the national Advisory Council on Historic Preservation.

The council is charged with promoting the preservation, enhancement and sustainable use of the nation's historic resources and advises the president and Congress on national historic recognition and include the Point Fermin Lighthouse, the Cabrillo Beach Bathhouse and El Pueblo de Los Angeles buildings and plaza.

"Early in my career working as an architect, I was lucky to get projects that involved small public buildings," Hoyos said. "That led to my work with the Los Angeles Conservancy and to my advocacy."

Re-elect Elliott Rothman for Mayor of Pomona Vote por re-eligir a Elliott Rothman para Alcalde de Pomona

It is my honor to represent you as the Mayor of Pomona. Under my leadership public safety has increased, new businesses have arrived, thousands of jobs have been created, and the city's infrastructure and civic pride continues to improve. As Mayor, I will always be accessible, and I will continue representing your interests in the beautiful City of Pomona.

During my tenure as Mayor and Councilman, I have been involved in bettering our community in some of the following ways:

- Supported programs that reduce crime and strive to eliminate human trafficking.
- Brought in the new businesses, restaurants and jobs to the Rio Rancho Towne Center.
- Created thousands of new jobs by attracting new industries and developments.
- Revitalized the city by supporting beautiful new housing projects.
- Fought to keep our City's Senior Centers open and fully staffed.
- Enacted policies and programs that have reduced homelessness.
- Enacted policies that helped the City reduce clean water usage.
- Supported numerous youth and community organizations, including AYSO, Little League, Scouts, JROTC, PTAs, Pomona Hope Partners, Special Olympics, and after school programs.
- Engaged our Colleges and Universities to provide programs and mentorship for our youth.
- Represented you on regional boards so that you have a voice in and around our city.

I feel that my experience and dedication to our city has provided me with the knowledge and expertise to continue representing you as the Mayor of Pomona.

Please vote to re-elect Elliott Rothman for Mayor.

Please visit my website at www.RothmanForPomona.com

Ha sido un honor para mí representarles como Alcalde de Pomona. Bajo mi liderazgo, la seguridad pública ha incrementado, miles de trabajos se han creado, y la infraestructura de nuestra ciudad y el orgullo comunitario continúa aumentando. Como Alcalde, siempre será accesible y continuaré representando sus intereses en la bella Ciudad de Pomona.

Durante mi tenencia como Alcalde y Miembro del Concilio, yo me he involucrado en mejorar nuestra comunidad de las siguientes maneras:

- Apoyar programas para reducir el crimen y luchar por eliminar el tráfico humano.
- Generar nuevos negocios, restaurantes y trabajos en Rio Rancho Towne Center.
- Crear miles de nuevos trabajos al atraer nuevas industrias y proyectos.
- Revitalizar la ciudad al apoyar hermosos proyectos de nuevas viviendas.
- Luchar por mantener nuestros Centros Para Ancianos abiertos y completamente atendidos.
- Establecer medidas y programas que han reducido el asunto de personas sin hogar.
- Establecer medidas que ayudaron a la Ciudad a reducir el consumo de agua.
- Apoyar numerosas organizaciones para la juventud y la comunidad, incluyendo AYSO, Ligas Menores, Exploradores, JROTC, PTAs, Pomona Hope Partnership, Olimpiadas Especiales, y programas después de escuela.
- Hacer partícipes a los Colegios y Universidades para proveer programas y tutoría para nuestros jóvenes.
- Representarlos en las mesas directivas regionales para que usted tenga una voz dentro y alrededor de nuestra ciudad.

Creo que mi experiencia y mi dedicación a nuestra ciudad me ha dado la sabiduría y la experiencia para continuar representándolos como Alcalde de Pomona.

Parade marking Pomona Day at the L.A. County Fair kicks off Fair's opening day

The dance team from Pomona's School of Arts and Enterprise got their attention at this month's Pomona Day Parade at the Fair.

Thanks to our friends at Wells Fargo for sponsoring the Pomona Day Parade -- and all of the Community Day Parades throughout the L.A. County Fair.

A special parade team from the Boys & Girls Club marched in this month's Pomona Day Parade at the Fair.

The U.S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management entry in the Pomona Day Parade at the Fair was well-received by all, even though that expression on the burro looks like he was wondering when all of this was going to be over.

DENISE NELSON | BREAST CANCER SURVIVOR

An avid tennis player and grandmother, Denise Nelson radiates positive energy. When she discovered a lump in her breast, her mother, a 3-time cancer survivor, told her to "Call Nurse Martha at Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center's Breast Health Center." Martha immediately helped schedule a 3D Mammography and an MRI for Denise. These advanced screenings revealed cancer in both breasts. After intense treatment and lots of TLC, Denise is loving life and getting back in the game. She says she's grateful to everyone at The Robert & Beverly Lewis Family Cancer Care Center for their excellent care and compassion. Patients like Denise and her mother truly motivate us. ### Pomona police, civic leaders to kick off 2016 Red Ribbon Week

Representatives of the Pomona Police Department and civic leaders will officially kick off Red Ribbon Week at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Oct. 24, at Pomona's Garey High School, according to a police prevention department spokesperson.

The week-long event is part of a national observance of the Red Ribbon Campaign, sponsored by the National Family Partnership to help encourage kids to stay off of drugs and alcohol.

This year's theme is "YOLO (You Only Live Once). Be Drug Free."

Have you reset your irrigation controller?

It's important to save water ALL YEAR. Fall and Winter are the easiest times of the year to save water.

Many people forget to "dial down" their sprinklers for the season.

Don't set & forget. It wastes water and can be unhealthy for plants.

Inland Valley Hope Partners 43rd annual ‘Walk for the Hungry’ set for October

Inland Valley Hope Partners, a non-profit agency dedicated to healing the Inland Valley of hunger and homelessness, will hold its 43rd annual “Walk for the Hungry” next month in Claremont.

The event begins with registration at noon and a 5K walk kicking off at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 9, at the Claremont University Consortium, 101 S. Mills Ave., Claremont.

Participants are encouraged to dress as their favorite superhero as they join hundreds of walkers on the course around the Claremont Colleges to raise money to help feed the hungry.

An average of one in four children locally struggle with hunger, according to a news release.

Included at the festival will be face painting, live music and more. There is no registration fee and no minimum pledge is required.

On-line registration is available at www.inlandvalleyhopepartners.org. Walkers also may register on site at noon the day of the event.

Inland Valley Hope Partners, founded in 1968, operates local food pantries, emergency shelter and other supportive services. The group serves more than 70,000 men, women and children each year.

‘Just Eliminate Suicide’ car show set for next month at Tony’s French Dips

A “Just Eliminate Suicide” classic car show will be held in the street in front of Tony’s Famous French Dips in Pomona next month as a fundraiser for two non-profit organizations.

Cedric (Gino) Elias, an organizer of the event, said the car show marks the 10th anniversary of the death from suicide of his nephew, Jacob Elias Soto, and the show’s name is based on Soto’s initials (JES).

“We intend to celebrate the lives of our loved ones lost by suicide and to fund programs so that others will not be touched by suicide,” Elias said.

A similar event was held five years ago, he added.

The car show – complete with competition and judging in “people’s choice” and “mayor’s selection” categories – will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2, 986 E. 2nd St., Pomona.

Registration for the car show is $35. T-shirts are available with registration for $10 or $15 the day of the event.

Proceeds will go to suicide prevention and grieving groups including Pomona’s Kennedy-Austin Foundation and Family and Friends of Murdered Victims (FFMV) of Redlands.

For more information and registration, contact Cissy at (909) 560-0787 or rcissy1972@verizon.net.

Pomona Day Parade . . . from p. 11

That's Pomona City Councilmember Debra Martin riding "shotgun" in the fire truck in the Pomona Day Parade.

The Girl Scouts of Pomona -- and a few Brownies -- made an impressive appearance in the parade.

Members of Pomona's Ganesha High School marching band were looking sharp in the parade.

There was no question that Pomona's Garey High School marching band grabbed the attention of the audience in the Pomona Day Parade.

Too many La Nueva Voz friends to mention on this float (although that is Pomona Unified School District Board member Dr. Roberta Perlman standing behind all the beads) but Pomona Day Community Hero Manuel Castillejos is pictured standing high up in the pirate ship tipping his hat to the La Nueva Voz camera.

Pomona Day Hero Pamela Lynn waves to the crowd from her bale of hay on the barnyard float in the Pomona Day Parade at the Fair. (And that's La Nueva Voz friend Ethel Gardner of Pomona's Kennedy Austin Foundation, one of last year's heroes at the Fair, behind her.)

That's Mickey Gallivan, President of the Historical Society of Pomona Valley, at the wheel of the antique car on the Historical Society's float in the parade.

The girls from Pomona Catholic were in good spirits all the way through the Pomona Day Parade.

Members of the Pomona High School "Red Devils" marching band always do a good job in the Pomona Day Parade.

Cedric "Gino" Elias and Margarita Silva of Pomona's Relay for Life rode in the Pomona Day Parade. Now, if they could only get those Relay for Life walking footprints off the car!

Pomona Historic Preservation Commissioner Rubio Gonzalez rides a historically preserved car in the Pomona Day Parade at the Fair with Lorena Gonzalez riding behind him in the back seat.

Walt Barkley, Pomona's favorite cop, rides the parade route in his old-school police cruiser.

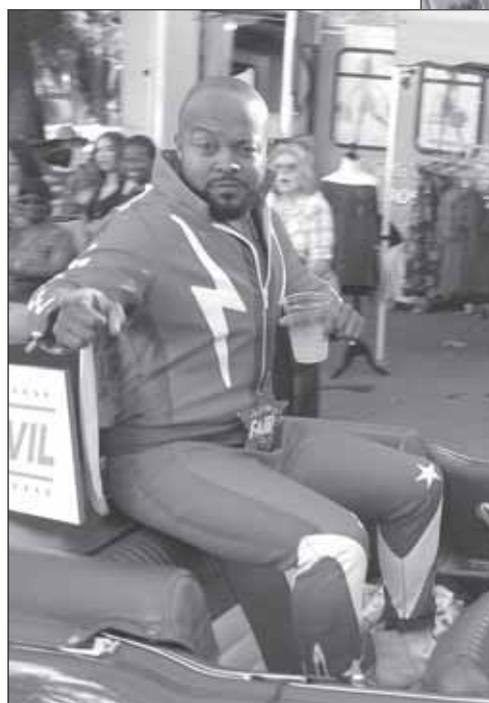

A member of the Fairplex creative department rides along the parade route on his high-wheeled tricycle.

Smokey the Bear waves to the crowd in the Pomona Day Parade, courtesy of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Forest Service.

Pomona Valley Special Olympics athletes make their way down the parade route in style in a Fairplex tram.

Hospital offers $50 mammograms during Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center will offer 3D mammograms for $50 – half the usual cost of $100 – for uninsured patients during the month of October in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

"Mammograms are a critical measure for women's health," said Dr. Paul Reisch, medical director of the Breast Health Center at the hospital. "We don't want the cost to deter any woman from taking charge of her well-being."

The 3D technology is believed to improve the cancer detection rate by 40 percent or more.

Cal Poly professor... from pg. 10

At Cal Poly Pomona, Hoyos teaches classes and studio sessions involving historic resources, buildings and landscapes in Los Angeles.

“Our design studios usually involve real case studies, talking with community groups and local government, so that students learn about the actual dynamics unfolding in the press and the real political decision-making,” Hoyos said.

“What you find in preservation on a national scale is much more attention to diversity and diverse communities,” he added. “For a long time, issues of diversity and preservation were not really well-acknowledged. It took real policy changes to cause people to start looking at African American resources, women’s histories, LGBT histories and, for my own neck of the woods, Latino history, which is so important in California.

Hoyos is an advisor and member of the Board of Trustees for the National Trust for Historic Preservation and national co-chair of the National Park Service’s American Latino Scholars Expert Panel. He is a former commissioner on the State Historic Resources Commission, where he served as chair for two years, and a former Board member of the Los Angeles Conservancy.

He is a graduate of the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara in Mexico and holds a master’s degree in architecture from Harvard University.

‘Pomona Reads!’ set for next month in Pomona Civic Center

“Pomona Reads!” will be held next month in the Pomona Civic Center as an annual celebration of books including everything from book sales and panel discussions to author signings.

The annual event will be held this year from noon to 4 p.m. in the Civic Center, according to an e-mail from the organization “Save Our Pomona Public Library / Advocacy.”

It is billed as “a book fair with something for everyone who loves books and reading.”

Among the attractions will be a magic show, crafts and a caricature artist for children, and even a children’s writing workshop.

Booths offering books for sale will include Barnes & Noble, Mrs. Nelson’s, Historical Society of Pomona Valley, Pomona Library Foundation, Pelekinesis Publishing, Inlandia Publishing and others.

For more information, visit the “Pomona Reads 2016” Facebook page.

Sowing Seeds for Life to hold yard sale to raise funds for Christmas gifts for the kids

Sowing Seeds for Life of La Verne has scheduled a yard sale next month to raise funds for its annual Christmas at the Pantry.

The yearly holiday event helps ensure more than 500 kids in the community receive a toy to brighten the season since many of these children otherwise would not have any special gift to open.

The goal for the event is $3,000 so that – along with donated toys – Sowing Seeds will have enough toys for every child attending the December event.

“Gently used” items may be donated by dropping them off at 1350 Arrow Highway in La Verne on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The yard sale itself is scheduled for 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22, also at the 1350 Arrow Highway location.

For more information, contact Fran Robertson at (909) 293-7735.

REMEMBERING THE PAST -- Three top administrators who have guided La Verne’s Haynes Family of Programs, formerly LeRoy Haynes Center and before that LeRoy Boys Home, get together to reflect on the facility’s past and its many accomplishments at last week’s 70th anniversary reunion and celebration. The event -- which included games, music and an inflatable water slide for the kids -- featured everything from a picnic to a program looking back at the history of the many Haynes services. On hand were former staff members, current and former volunteers, alumni and their family with some former residents on hand who lived there in the late 1940s. Pictured at the picnic, from left, are former CEO Dan Hanlon, who lived at the facility as a teenager and served as executive director from 1982 to 1988; current President and CEO Dan Maydeck; and Darrell Paulk, who served as President and CEO from 1988 to 2006. The facility was founded in 1946 by LeRoy Haynes and has grown from its initial 10 residents to six cottages, each housing 12 foster children and youth. Today’s campus also includes two specialized day schools, a transitional living program for “aged out” foster youth, a community therapeutic support program, mental health services, and even special education services to students in their home or school.

CRAFTSMAN HARD AT WORK ON JACK O'LANTERN

-- An unidentified craftsman works on one of thousands of Jack O'Lanterns that will be on display in "RISE of the Jack O'Lanterns!" coming to Pomona's Fairplex next month. Hours of the event will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, through Sunday, Oct. 30, and featured will be intricately carved 100-pound plus pumpkins on display. Artists spend 10 to 15 hours per pumpkin to illustrate and carve to perfection. Everything will be included from life-sized dinosaurs, dragons and safari animals to characters from favorite movies. In addition, nearly 5,000 pumpkins will be carved at the event itself. Tickets must be purchased in advance and are available on line at www.therise.org. Adult general admission tickets are $26, children ages 3 to 12 or seniors over 65 are $22 and children two and under are free.

INTRICACY OF DESIGN -- A Charlie Brown scene carved into a pumpkin illustrates the intricacy of design and detail that goes into Jack O'Lanterns on display at "RISE of the Jack O'Lanterns!" at Pomona's Fairplex next month. The show, visiting a total of five locations across the country, will include a total of 765,000 pounds of pumpkins, will use 6,700 lighting elements at each location, and will require a total of 50,120 staff hours to produce the show at all five locations. The show uses a mixture of fresh real pumpkins and life-like carveable artificial pumpkins. Hundreds of carvers will be on hand over a two-day period prior to each show to get all the work done. The RISE is the only Jack O'Lantern event in North America that comes close to carving 5,000 real pumpkins each weekend at each location.

HISTORICAL DEDICATION AT POMONA'S LA CASA PRIMERA -- Representatives of the 140th Grand Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West last month dedicated a plaque at Pomona's La Casa Primera, the first adobe home of Ygnacio Palomares and his wife, Concepcion Lopez. The house, located at 1569 N. Park Ave., Pomona, was built in 1837 and is the oldest house in the Pomona Valley. The Historical Society of Pomona Valley purchased the property for $85,000 in 1973. The Native Sons of the Golden West is a fraternal order of native born Californians that was founded in 1875 for the purpose of preserving California history. Pictured around the plaque in front of the adobe, at left rear, are members of the Native Sons who joined members and board members of the Historical Society for the photo. Historical Society President Mickey Gallivan is kneeling at front (on right) of the monument. Paul Lapachet, Grand (statewide) President, is pictured at rear, sixth from left. His home "parlor" is South San Francisco #157.

PREPARING CEREMONIAL MORTAR -- Representatives of the Native Sons of the Golden West mix the ceremonial mortar to place their historical marker in front of Pomona's La Casa Primera. The sand and gravel was gathered from all the counties of California "typifying the natural greatness and resources of California," the cement came from the mills of California as proof that "man has harnessed the forces of nature," and the water comes from the sites of each of the missions of California "so that the resources of nature mingled with the energy of man (may) ever produce fit material from which to build a splendid future."

PRESERVING CALIFORNIA HISTORY -- This dedication plaque was officially unveiled last month at Pomona's La Casa Primera. The Rancho San Jose Parlor No. 307 of the Native Daughters of the Golden West placed a similar plaque on the site in May 1975, dedicating the home to the families of Ygnacio Palomares and Ricardo Vejar, grantees of Rancho San Jose in 1837 and the first settlers of Pomona Valley.

LA CASA PRIMERA
 THE FIRST ADOBE HOME OF YGNACIO PALOMARES AND WIFE CONCEPCION LOPEZ, THE OLDEST HOUSE IN THE POMONA VALLEY, WAS BUILT IN 1837. IT ORIGINALLY CONSISTED OF TWO ROOMS WITH A VIGA-LATILLA BRANCH ROOF AND PACKED MUD FLOOR. THE PALOMARES FAMILY LIVED HERE UNTIL THE 1850s.
 IN 1867 FRANCISCO PALOMARES AND WIFE LUGARDA ALVARADO MOVED INTO THIS HOME WHERE THEY LIVED UNTIL 1882. HIS SON, FRANK J. PALOMARES, MEMBER OF RAMONA PARLOR #109, NSGW, GREW UP IN THIS HOUSE.
 FRANCISCO ALONG WITH C. BURDICK AND P.C. TONNER FORMED THE FIRST WATER COMPANY WHICH LATER BECAME THE POMONA LAND AND WATER COMPANY. TODAY POMONA HAS A SURPLUS OF FRESH ARTESIAN WATER THROUGHOUT THE VALLEY THANKS TO FRANCISCO.
 IN 1973 THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF POMONA VALLEY PURCHASED THIS PROPERTY FOR $85,000.

Open houses set at Cal Poly's Kellogg House during 90th anniversary of cereal magnate's winter home

Open houses at Cal Poly University Pomona's famed Kellogg House are being provided free to the public on the first Sunday of each month – October through April – as the home once owned by breakfast cereal magnate William Keith Kellogg celebrates its 90th anniversary this year.

The home, built in 1926, is rich in vintage charm and mesmerizing views and often is the site of weddings, birthday parties, retreats, tours and other special occasions.

It has been the venue for nearly 100 events and tours so far this year.

Kellogg, also known as an Arabian horse breeder and originally from Battle Creek, Michigan, wanted a winter residence and a place to raise his horses in 1925, almost 20 years after he launched Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

He purchased 377 acres of land in Pomona for $250,000 and built the Kellogg House the following year for $150,000.

Architect on the 8,777 square foot project was Myron Hunt, whose projects included the Rose Bowl and the Huntington Library.

While designed as a typical ranch house, the home features many finer details such as a hand-painted ceiling in the dining room, a pipe organ chamber in the basement and more.

Charles Gibbs Adams, whose work included the Hearst Castle gardens in San Simeon, designed the outside grounds.

Kellogg entertained celebrities at the home including President Ronald Reagan, Walt Disney, Will Rogers, Rudolph Valentino, Gary Cooper and Charles Lindbergh.

Most of the furniture in the house was once owned by Kellogg and his family.

The house underwent a five-month renovation in 1998.

Surplus funds generated by Kellogg House are given to the university to support various campus programs and services, including educational grants and student scholarships.

It is operated by the Cal Poly Pomona Foundation, Inc., which is a non-profit auxiliary of the California State University.

NAACP branch prepares for November election of officers

The Nominating Committee of the NAACP Pomona Valley Branch 1085B will present its report next month as the group begins its annual election cycle to select officers and "at-large" members of the executive committee, according to Lisha Lett, Secretary of the branch.

The report will be presented at the group's monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 13, at Laguna Technicol College, 260 S. Garey Ave., Pomona, and will include receipt of nominations by petition and election of the Election Supervisory Committee.

All members whose memberships are current as of April 1 may be nominated for office. In order to sign a nominating petition or be elected to the Election Supervisory Committee, a member must be current as of 30 days prior to the October meeting.

Date, time and location of the upcoming election itself – required to be held in November – has not yet been determined. To be eligible to vote, members must be in good standing of the branch 30 days prior to the election. A form of identification is required.

FAIRPLEX MARKS SITE OF WORLD WAR II JAPANESE 'ASSEMBLY CENTER' -- Representatives of Pomona's Fairplex, the U.S. military and Southern California's Japanese community gathered at Fairplex last month to dedicate a plaque marking a time that 5,514 persons of Japanese ancestry, most of whom were American citizens, were confined -- without process of law -- on the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds under an executive order signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The camp was one of 15 nationwide. The Fairgrounds facility was in operation from May 7 through Aug. 24, 1942, when the majority of the detainees were relocated to another facility, the Heart Mountain Relocation Center in Wyoming. "May such injustice and suffering never recur," the plaque read. Unveiling the plaque marking the site as California Registered Historical Landmark No. 934 are, from left, Bill Fujioka, retired CEO of Los Angeles County and a Board member of the Los Angeles County Fair Association, who spoke on behalf of his parents and grandparents; Bacon Sakatani, Chairman of the Pomona Assembly Center Committee; Dwight Richards, Vice President of Operations for Fairplex; Akira Chiba, Consul General of Japan in Los Angeles; and U.S. Army Capt. Joseph Davis, Commander of the San Gabriel Valley Recruiting Company. Fujioka told La Nueva Voz after the event that all four of his grandparents -- and both of his parents -- were at the Fairgrounds and later at Heart Mountain. His late father eventually was released to enlist in the U.S. Army. His mother was released and relocated to Boston under an arrangement in which she had friends east of the Mississippi River who agreed to be responsible for her. "I think it's important for the present and future generations to remember this event so it doesn't happen again," said Fujioka, who grew up in Boyle Heights.

House of Ruth, Pomona police to hold annual candlelight vigil marking Domestic Violence Awareness Month

House of Ruth and representatives of the Pomona Police Department will hold their annual candlelight vigil next month in Pomona during Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

The event will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27, in front of the House of Ruth outreach office, 599 N. Main St., Pomona.

The event is designed to increase awareness and educate the community on the gravity of domestic violence issues and to inform the public on what resources are available to victims and their families, according to House of Ruth Director of Development Pat Bell.

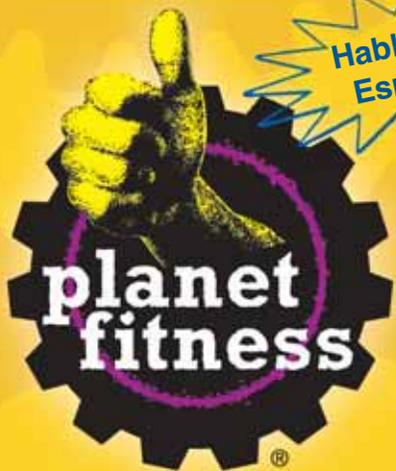

Members of the public are invited to gather in support of the non-profit House of Ruth's work providing services to battered women and their children.

Each year the event acknowledges and supports survivors of domestic violence and honors those who have lost their lives to domestic violence.
