

ETHICS AND CORRECTION POLICY

La Nueva Voz as a matter of policy makes every effort based on years of experience using standard, proven and accepted reporting and editing techniques to report the news in an ethical, comprehensive, and factual manner. Occasionally, of course, errors occur. When that happens, La Nueva Voz reviews the error, re-confirms the facts, and publishes a correction, retraction or clarification as soon as possible, generally in the next issue, when possible, and in a similar area of prominence in the newspaper as the original story, column or opinion piece.

Included in this overall policy is a commitment to verifying all facts, showing compassion for subjects, protecting vulnerable persons and weighing the public's right to know against potential privacy intrusion.

In addition, La Nueva Voz believes it is important to act independently, maintain objectivity and be accountable to its readers.

Any question about the accuracy or fairness of a published article -- or about this policy -- should be relayed to the publisher.